The Food and Drugs Authority (FDA), has organized a one-day training for sachet water producers in the Upper East Region on Tuesday, 10\textsuperscript{th} December, 2019 at the SSNIT Conference Hall, in Bolgatanga.

The training forms part of the FDA'S mandate to ensure public health and safety by ensuring the enforcement of regulatory standards and requirements in the industry.

The one day training also forms part of the Authority's industrial support and training services to equip clients with the modern and best practices that would help improve the quality and safety in the water industry in the Region.

The producers were further educated on Good Manufacturing practices, Good hygiene practices, Documentation and Records keeping, Good storage practices, as well as how to supervise good distribution practices.
Participants were encouraged to continually put to use, the strategies and skills acquired during the training.

The training brought together, producers of sachet water from the Bolgatanga Municipal, Kassena Nankana East and West, West Bongo, Tongo, Builsa South and North Districts in the Upper East Region.

At the end of the training, participants expressed their appreciation and appealed to the Authority to frequently organize such trainings in order to help improve their products and businesses.